RentDate Terms of Service

Version: v11-2026-11-16 | Updated: 16 November 2026

English information translation of the complete Polish Terms of Service. Polish is the official language under clause 1.11. Mandatory consumer rights remain unaffected. Linked policies are available in Polish unless an English version is expressly identified.

1. General provisions

1.1. These terms of service (the ‘Terms’) set out the rules for using the website, mobile application, backend and related digital services operating under the RentDate brand, together referred to as the ‘Service’.

1.2. The operator of the Service is Maciej Waśkiewicz, an individual conducting non-registered business activity under the RentDate brand. Business and correspondence address: Al. Grunwaldzka 116, 80-244 Gdańsk, Poland. Email for contact, complaints and legal matters: kontakt@rentdate.pl. Contact telephone: +48 514 013 677. This person is referred to below as the ‘Operator’.

1.3. As of the last update, the Operator conducts non-registered business activity and has no entry in CEIDG (Poland’s Central Register and Information on Economic Activity). The absence of a CEIDG entry does not limit consumer rights or the Operator’s obligations under mandatory law.

1.4. The Service is a social, organisational and settlement platform intended exclusively for adults.

1.5. The Service enables Client and Author Accounts, publication and browsing of Profiles, communication, sending and handling Meeting proposals, payments, payouts, one-time Chat Unlock, a referral programme, reviews, posts, reports, complaints and VIP features.

1.6. The Service is not a companionship agency, escort agency, intermediary for paid sexual services, employer of Authors, employment agency, security service, emergency service or entity guaranteeing the safety of offline Meetings.

1.7. The Operator provides its own digital services and technical infrastructure. As a rule, it is not a party to conversations or to the contract governing the actual conduct of a Meeting between Users, except for communication through a Platform Profile, which may be handled by the Operator or its authorised persons.

1.8. These Terms must be read together with the Privacy Policy, GDPR information, Cookies Policy, Price List, Refund Policy, VIP rules and the information presented immediately before purchase.

1.9. If there is a discrepancy concerning a particular price or paid service, the order summary accepted by the User takes precedence, provided it does not limit mandatory rights.

1.10. These Terms are made available in a form that allows them to be saved, downloaded and reproduced.

1.11. The official language of these Terms is Polish.

1.12. Document version: v11-2026-11-16. Last updated: 16 November 2026.

2. Definitions

2.1. User – an individual using the Service.

2.2. Account – a User’s individual access account.

2.3. Client – a User who browses Author Profiles, sends Meeting proposals, makes payments or uses messaging, reviews and reports.

2.4. Author – a User who publishes a Profile, availability schedule and prices, accepts or rejects proposals and may receive payouts.

2.5. Author conducting non-registered business activity – an Author offering paid Meetings without a CEIDG entry who declares that they meet the conditions for non-registered business activity under applicable law.

2.5a. Author-JDG – an Author offering paid Meetings as a registered sole trader (jednoosobowa działalność gospodarcza, JDG).

2.6. Profile – the information, photographs, settings, prices and availability displayed in the Service.

2.7. Meeting – an event agreed directly between a Client and an Author using the Service.

2.8. Paid Meeting – an accepted Meeting for which the payment provider has successfully confirmed payment.

2.9. No-Show – a User's unjustified absence at the agreed place and time, accompanied by a lack of effective contact for the period specified in these Terms.

2.10. User Content – photographs, descriptions, Profiles, messages, notes, posts, comments, reviews, reports and other materials submitted by a User.

2.11. VIP – a paid digital service comprising the features described before purchase.

2.12. Price List – current information about prices, fees, commissions and the scope of paid services.

2.13. Payment provider – an external provider handling payments, refunds, chargebacks, KYC, AML, transfers or payouts, in particular Stripe.

2.14. Temporary settlement hold – a technical delay in releasing funds through the mechanisms of the Service and the payment provider; it is not a trust account or escrow service provided by the Operator.

2.15. Report – information submitted to the Operator about a possible violation of law, these Terms, safety or a third party's rights.

2.16. Sanction – a measure applied to an Account or User Content, in particular a warning, content removal, feature restriction, suspension or permanent ban.

2.17. Chargeback – a payment disputed through a bank, card issuer or network, payment provider or another authorised entity.

2.18. Referral Programme – the Service's voluntary promotional programme in which a User may share an individual referral link and, after the conditions in these Terms and the Price List are met, receive a one-time bonus for the activity of a correctly referred person.

2.19. Referrer – a User whose Account has the individual referral link used to attribute a new registration correctly.

2.20. Referred Person – a User whose new Account was correctly attributed to a Referrer within the referral link's attribution period.

2.21. Referral Bonus – a one-time benefit, in the amount specified in the Price List, granted to a Referrer after the Referred Person meets the activity requirement in section 17a.

2.22. Chat Unlock – the Operator's one-time paid digital service enabling a Client without active VIP, after successful payment confirmation, to initiate a private chat immediately with a particular profile, where available, independently of any previous payment for a Meeting.

2.23. Platform Profile – a clearly labelled Profile created, maintained or operated by the Operator that does not represent a real, independent person available for an offline Meeting. Communication through it may be handled by administrators, employees, contractors or other persons authorised by the Operator.

3. Nature of the platform and contracting parties

3.1. The Operator provides tools to help find a Profile, communicate, agree a time, accept a payment, temporarily hold settlement, report a problem and leave a Review.

3.2. Unless the summary of a particular purchase expressly states otherwise, the contract for the actual performance of a Meeting is concluded directly between the Client and the Author.

3.3. The Operator is a party to the contract for its own digital services, in particular the Account, operation of the Service, VIP and the service fee.

3.4. The Operator does not employ Authors, choose the Meeting location, supervise the Meeting, instruct Users how to behave offline or perform the Author's Meeting services on their behalf.

3.5. Authors act in their own name and on their own responsibility. They are not the Operator's employees, agents, representatives, service contractors or subcontractors.

3.6. The Operator does not guarantee a response, acceptance of a proposal, attendance, punctuality, identity beyond the checks performed, intentions, sobriety, health, behaviour, accuracy of Profile statements or the outcome of a Meeting.

3.7. Content published by Users does not constitute the Operator's statements or recommendations. This rule does not apply to Content published directly by the Operator through a labelled Platform Profile.

3.8. The Operator may publish safety advice, but it does not replace a User's own risk assessment or assistance from the police, ambulance service or other competent services.

4. Technical requirements and registration

4.1. Using the Service requires a compatible device, internet access, a current browser or application, an active email address and support for the technologies needed for login, payments and security.

4.2. Users must provide truthful, current information that is not misleading and does not infringe third parties' rights.

4.3. A User may hold one Account unless the Operator agrees otherwise.

4.4. Users must not create fictitious, automated or bulk Accounts, impersonate others or use Accounts to circumvent bans, limits, payments or moderation. This prohibition does not cover clearly labelled Platform Profiles created and controlled by the Operator under these Terms.

4.5. Users must protect their password, email inbox, device, session and security codes and must not share their Account with third parties.

4.6. The Operator may require email verification, reauthentication, age confirmation, additional security checks or information needed by the payment provider.

4.7. Suspected Account takeover must be reported to the Operator immediately.

4.8. An incomplete registration may be cancelled and the necessary technical data deleted in accordance with the Privacy Policy.

5. Adult eligibility and protection of minors

5.1. The Service is intended exclusively for people aged 18 or over.

5.2. By creating an Account, Users declare that they are adults and have the required legal capacity.

5.3. Minors may not hold Accounts, browse Profiles, use communications or participate in Meetings organised through the Service.

5.4. The Operator may request confirmation of age, restrict an Account during verification or remove an Account where reasonable doubts arise.

5.5. Using another person's identity document, providing a false age or allowing a minor to use an Account is a serious violation.

5.6. Where exploitation of a minor, violence or illegal content is suspected, the Operator may immediately preserve data, suspend the Account and notify the competent authorities.

6. Client and Author Accounts

6.1. A Client Account enables browsing Profiles, sending proposals, payments, messages, reviews and reports to the extent made available by the Service.

6.2. An Author Account enables publication of a Profile, schedule and prices, acceptance or rejection of proposals and receipt of payouts once the required conditions are met.

6.3. Authors are responsible for truthful Profiles, current availability, correct prices, lawful offers and actual performance of Meetings.

6.4. Before entering into paid Meetings is enabled, Authors must truthfully select the form in which they offer services: non-registered business activity or a registered sole-trader business (JDG).

6.5. As of the last update, the Service does not support paid Meetings offered by Authors as ordinary non-business individuals, companies or other legal persons. The Operator may extend the supported forms in future after updating the Service and documents accordingly.

6.5a. Before offering paid Meetings, Authors make a separate declaration that their selected business status reflects the facts, that they understand their duty to fulfil their own tax, record-keeping and registration obligations, and that they will promptly update their status in the Service if it changes. The Operator may record this declaration together with the Account identifier, document versions, declared status and date for evidentiary, security and legal compliance purposes.

6.6. Authors declaring non-registered business activity are responsible for meeting its eligibility conditions, keeping required records, monitoring applicable thresholds and registering a business when required. The absence of a CEIDG entry does not automatically remove obligations towards Clients under consumer or civil law.

6.7. Author-JDG Users must provide truthful and current business details, in particular their business name, NIP tax identifier, address and contact details. The Operator may check the NIP and entity details in the Ministry of Finance/National Revenue Administration’s public VAT taxpayer register. This check helps reduce fictitious data and confirms only information disclosed in that register; it does not independently establish that a particular person owns or is authorised to represent the business. Identity and payout information may be verified separately by the payment provider under KYC/AML procedures.

6.8. Before the Client is bound by a paid Meeting, the Service should clearly identify the Author’s declared business form and the basic division of responsibilities between the Author and the Operator. Non-registered business activity is not presented as equivalent to being an ordinary private individual acting outside business.

6.9. Authors are responsible for their own tax, accounting, record-keeping, insurance, licensing and consumer obligations and for the accuracy of their chosen business form.

6.10. The Operator or payment provider may require Authors to provide identification, address, banking and tax information and KYC or AML documents.

6.11. Where required by platform-operator reporting rules, in particular legislation implementing DAC7, the Operator may collect and verify Author information, determine tax residence and report Author details, transaction numbers and remuneration earned through the Service to the competent authorities.

6.12. If an Author fails to provide information required under platform reporting rules, the Operator may take measures required by law, including holding payouts and, where required or where a payout hold is not possible, restricting further Meeting offers.

6.13. As a rule, the Operator is not the Author’s income-tax withholding agent, does not calculate or pay the Author’s income tax, prepare their annual tax return or determine the appropriate tax treatment, unless a specific mandatory legal provision imposes that duty on the Operator.

6.14. Authors independently determine and fulfil the tax, social-contribution, record-keeping and registration obligations associated with income earned through the Service. Information provided by the Service is general and is not individual tax, accounting or legal advice.

6.15. To the extent required or permitted by applicable law, the Operator may provide the competent tax authorities with information about Authors, transactions, payouts and remuneration earned through the Service. Such reporting does not transfer responsibility for preparing or filing the Author's tax return to the Operator.

7. Profiles, ranking and Reviews

7.1. Users may publish only Content to which they hold the necessary rights and whose publication does not violate law, privacy or personal rights.

7.2. Other people's photographs without consent, photographs of minors, nudity, pornography, sexual content, violence, identity-document information, card details, full private addresses and other high-risk content are prohibited.

7.3. The main parameters influencing Profile order may include User-selected criteria, city or approximate location, rating, number of reviews, price, availability, activity and Profile completeness. Their importance depends on the view used: User-selected criteria and filters take precedence, and in sections such as 'highest rated', 'nearest' or 'lowest priced', the criterion named in the section is dominant.

7.4. As of the last update, the Operator does not sell higher Profile placement in organic results. Any future advertising or paid promotion affecting exposure will be clearly labelled as advertising, sponsored material or paid promotion.

7.5. Reviews may be submitted only after a completed Meeting to the extent supported by the Service.

7.6. The Service labels or may label reviews as originating from completed Meetings using its records, but the Operator does not guarantee the truth of every statement in a review.

7.7. The Operator does not remove reviews solely because they are negative. Reviews may be removed or restricted if they breach these Terms, law or third-party rights, or if there are reasonable grounds to suspect manipulation.

7.8. False, purchased, retaliatory, coerced or manipulated Reviews are prohibited and may be removed.

7.9. The Operator may create and maintain Platform Profiles for communication, demonstration, testing, moderation, security, operation of the Service or development of its features.

7.10. A Platform Profile should be labelled in the interface so that, before entering a paid interaction, Users can recognise that it does not represent a real, independent person available for an offline Meeting.

7.11. A Platform Profile cannot be used to conclude or pay for an offline Meeting. Display of information normally associated with an ordinary Author Profile does not mean a Meeting is available.

7.12. Messages to a Platform Profile may be read and handled by administrators, employees, contractors or other persons authorised by the Operator. Replies may appear under that Platform Profile's name in the conversation, but Users are informed that RentDate operates the profile and should not assume the respondent is the person represented by its name, photograph or description.

7.13. The Operator does not guarantee response times, continuous handling or replies from a particular person through a Platform Profile.

7.14. Where paid Chat Unlock is available for a Platform Profile, the purchase covers only the Operator's digital service providing a communication channel with that profile. It is not payment for a Meeting, a promise of a Meeting or a payment to a real Author.

7.15. Internal arrangements for handling a Platform Profile, including assignment of a particular administrator to a conversation, may change without affecting the price of the purchased digital service.

7.16. Messages and data related to Platform Profiles are processed in accordance with the Privacy Policy, security duties, moderation rules and applicable law.

8. Schedules, prices and availability

8.1. Authors must keep their schedules and prices current.

8.2. Display of a time slot does not guarantee that a Meeting will be accepted or take place.

8.3. The Author’s price is the base price. Before payment, the Client receives information about the base price, service fee, currency and total amount.

8.4. Schedules, descriptions, prices and notes must not conceal the real purpose of a Meeting, circumvent payments or publish a prohibited offer.

8.5. The Operator may block a time slot if it is occupied, disputed, unpaid after the deadline or at risk of double booking.

8.6. An Author unable to attend at the declared time should promptly cancel the Meeting or propose a change.

9. Proposals, acceptance and communication before a Meeting

9.1. Clients may send proposals including the date, time, duration, price and a note.

9.2. Authors may accept, reject or cancel a proposal or make a counterproposal.

9.3. A Meeting is confirmed only after acceptance by the required parties and successful fulfilment of any required payment condition.

9.4. Messages are for agreeing lawful and safe Meeting details. They must not be used to circumvent payments or arrange prohibited activities.

9.5. Before a Meeting, Users should check its time, location, price, duration and the other party’s Profile.

9.6. The Operator may send system reminders, but the absence of a reminder does not release Users from remembering an accepted Meeting.

9.7. Authors may voluntarily give separate consent to transactional SMS notifications about Paid Meetings. SMS consent is not a condition of Account creation or activation of Author features and may be withdrawn under the procedures available in the Service.

9.8. Merely providing a telephone number and confirming its accuracy does not mean ownership of that number has been verified by an SMS code, unless the Service expressly states that such verification has occurred.

9.9. Clients without active VIP may purchase Chat Unlock at the Price List price where the feature is available for that profile. Successful payment unlocks the ability to initiate a private conversation with that particular profile without first paying for a Meeting.

9.10. Chat Unlock is not payment or a deposit for a Meeting, remuneration for a reply, or a guarantee of a reply or a Meeting. No offline Meeting is offered at all for a Platform Profile.

9.11. Buying Chat Unlock does not change the safety rules, moderation, message limits or prohibitions in these Terms.

10. Cancellation and No-Show

10.1. Meetings may be cancelled using the Service’s features. The cancelling party may be required to provide a truthful reason.

10.2. Detailed time thresholds, consequences of cancellation and refund rules are set out in the Refund Policy and conditions shown before payment.

10.3. No-Show means a User’s failure to attend at the agreed place and time and a lack of effective contact for at least 15 minutes after the scheduled start, unless the parties agreed otherwise in messages.

10.4. No-Shows should be reported as soon as possible, preferably within 24 hours after the scheduled end of the Meeting. This period helps secure the settlement efficiently; missing it does not exclude complaints, claims or statutory rights. Later reports are assessed using the available evidence.

10.5. For a verified Author No-Show: a) funds are not paid to the Author; b) as a rule, the Client receives a full refund of the amount actually paid, including the service fee; c) the Operator may impose a Sanction on the Author; d) repeated incidents may lead to temporary or permanent removal of the ability to offer Meetings.

10.6. For a verified Client No-Show: a) the Client is not automatically entitled to a refund; b) the base price may be paid to the Author if the Author demonstrates readiness and attendance at the agreed time; c) the service fee is settled under the Refund Policy, pre-payment information and applicable law; d) the Operator may grant a full or partial refund because of documented exceptional circumstances, the parties' status, consumer rights or other material circumstances.

10.7. If both parties failed to attend, evidence conflicts or events cannot be reliably established, settlement may be held for manual verification.

10.8. Evidence may include messages in the Service, timestamps, records of attempted contact, the parties' agreements, voluntarily supplied documents and other credible information. The Operator does not require Users to publish their exact location in their Profile.

10.9. The Operator is not responsible for a User's absence itself, but conducts settlement and Sanction procedures under these Terms, the Refund Policy and law.

10.10. Abusing cancellations, creating fictitious Meetings, making false No-Show reports or manipulating evidence violates these Terms.

10.11. Ordinary cancellation of a Paid Meeting before it starts initiates a refund of the full amount paid if the payment is correctly linked and no separate dispute procedure is in progress. If automation is unavailable, the Operator handles the matter manually. After the scheduled start, the Meeting problem procedure applies, without restricting statutory rights.

10.12. Lateness, a slow reply or one unsuccessful call alone does not establish No-Show. Assessment considers the agreed place and time, contact attempts, changed arrangements and actual readiness for the Meeting. Neither party must wait in an unsafe place.

10.13. Illness, accidents, sudden danger, cancelled transport or other events beyond the parties' control are assessed individually. They do not automatically justify forfeiture of funds or exclusion of liability. Only evidence necessary to establish the circumstances is required; full medical records are not required.

10.14. Changes to the date, time, place, duration or price require clear agreement by both parties. The agreement should be recorded in the Service. If the application cannot safely amend a paid booking, use cancellation and a new booking or contact support; a unilateral message does not automatically change settlement.

10.15. For partial performance, a substantially shortened Meeting, material departure from the agreement or termination for safety reasons, the actual performance, reasons for termination and parties' rights are assessed. A full or partial refund is possible; one party's assertion alone does not determine the outcome.

11. Safety of offline Meetings

11.1. Users independently decide whether to attend a Meeting and are responsible for taking reasonable precautions.

11.2. First Meetings should preferably take place in public; inform a trusted person of the time and place, arrange your own transport and retain access to a telephone.

11.3. Users should leave a Meeting if they feel threatened and contact an emergency number or the competent services in an emergency.

11.4. The Operator does not continuously supervise Meetings or provide physical security, transport, medical care or on-site intervention.

11.5. Every interaction must be voluntary. Absence or withdrawal of consent, pressure, threats, violence or exploitation of a condition limiting informed decisions is unacceptable.

11.6. Users should not give the other party identity documents, passwords, codes, card details, access to online banking or substantial amounts outside the Service.

11.7. Safety advice is not a safety guarantee or legal, medical or psychological advice.

11.8. Payment for a Meeting, VIP or chat does not constitute consent to touching, sexual contact, drinking alcohol, transport, entering private premises, recording or any activity outside the voluntarily agreed scope. Consent may be withdrawn; no one may be forced to remain at a Meeting.

11.9. Impersonation, attendance by a different person, imposition of an unagreed location or threatening behaviour may justify refusal or termination of a Meeting and a Report. Settlement is not automatically decided against someone who reasonably protected their safety.

11.10. Another person’s location, contact details, private photographs or recordings must not be disclosed without an appropriate basis. Reporting a problem does not authorise public shaming, blackmail or publication of personal data. Call 112 in immediate danger.

12. Prohibition of sexual services, intimate imagery and sexual exploitation

12.1. RentDate is not an escort agency, a sexual-services platform or a place for offering, advertising, negotiating, financing or arranging sexual activities.

12.2. Prostitution, escort services, sexual sponsorship, paid erotic services, human trafficking, sexual exploitation and the facilitation of such activities are specifically prohibited. The prohibition also covers exchanging money, gifts, accommodation or other benefits for sexual acts.

12.3. Sexually explicit communications, proposals, negotiations and interactions are entirely prohibited in every area of the Service, both public and private. This includes sexting, sexual role-playing, proposals for sexual acts, pornography, materials depicting nudity in a sexual context and requests for such materials. The prohibition applies even when all participants are adults and give their voluntary consent.

12.4. The Service must not be used to arrange sexual acts or other adult services, including by making arrangements during a Meeting booking, in private messages or through external messaging services. The voluntary consent of the parties does not override this prohibition.

12.5. Recording, photographing, capturing, creating, obtaining, possessing, storing, transmitting, publishing, sharing or distributing intimate imagery of another person without that person’s prior, voluntary, informed and explicit consent covering the particular action is strictly prohibited where connected with use of the Service or Meetings arranged through it.

12.6. The prohibition in clause 12.5 specifically includes non-consensual intimate imagery (NCII), so-called revenge porn, intimate-image blackmail, threats to disclose intimate materials and manipulated or AI-generated intimate imagery. Consent to the creation or receipt of material does not automatically amount to consent to its continued storage, sharing or distribution. Regardless of consent, publishing or transmitting sexually explicit content through the Service remains prohibited.

12.7. All forms of sexual coercion, harassment, pressure, demands for intimate material, blackmail and threats are prohibited. Payment for a Meeting or a Service feature does not constitute consent to physical contact, sexual acts, recording or anything beyond the voluntarily agreed scope of the Meeting.

12.8. Users must not circumvent these rules through coded messages, abbreviations, emoji, concealed price lists, package names, links, phone numbers, external messaging services or off-platform arrangements connected with a transaction or Meeting organised through RentDate.

12.9. Where a violation is reasonably suspected, the Operator may promptly hide or remove content, restrict communications, suspend or permanently block an Account, cancel a Meeting and take proportionate settlement measures in accordance with these Terms and applicable law. Where necessary, the Operator may preserve legally admissible evidence and notify the competent authorities.

12.10. Users may report violations through the reporting features in the Service or at kontakt@rentdate.pl. Reports concerning NCII, sexual exploitation, intimate-image blackmail and risks to minors are treated as high-risk matters requiring priority review. Reporters should not distribute intimate material in an attempt to document a violation.

13. Payments and service fees

13.1. Payments are handled by an external payment provider, in particular Stripe.

13.2. Transaction amounts are calculated and approved by the backend. The Client interface is informational until confirmation by the backend and payment provider.

13.3. Clients pay the Author’s base price and the Operator’s service fee.

13.4. As of the update date, the service fee for Users without active VIP is 4% of the base price plus PLN 5.

13.5. As of the update date, the service fee for Users with active VIP is 2% of the base price plus PLN 5.

13.6. The total shown immediately before payment confirmation is binding. A Price List change does not change the price of an already confirmed transaction.

13.7. The Operator may reject, cancel or refer a payment for review if payment data does not match backend data or fraud risk exists.

13.8. Manipulating amounts, metadata, Meeting identifiers, checkout links, payment status, webhooks or refund mechanisms is prohibited.

13.9. Unless expressly stated otherwise before payment, the Meeting base price and Operator’s service fee exclude expenses incurred outside the Service in connection with the Meeting, in particular restaurant or café bills, drinks, tickets, cinema, events, attractions, travel, taxis, parking, accommodation and similar costs.

13.10. Users independently agree who bears external Meeting expenses and in what proportions. They may split costs equally, have the Client cover all costs or agree another lawful allocation accepted by both. The Operator does not fund, subsidise or automatically reimburse these expenses.

13.11. An agreement about external costs does not automatically change the Meeting price in the Service or entitle Users to deduct those costs from Meeting payments, unless the Service expressly provides that feature and it is lawful.

13.12. The Operator is not a party to Users’ obligations concerning external costs, does not guarantee or act as surety for their payment and does not collect these debts.

13.13. For evidentiary purposes, material agreements about external expenses should be confirmed in Service messages before the expense is incurred.

13.14. As of the update date, one-time Chat Unlock costs PLN 10.00 gross and activates immediate chat with a particular profile where available.

13.15. The price in clause 13.14 is the price of a digital service paid by the Client to the Operator. Internal settlement between the Operator and a real Author, if involved, is not an element of the Client’s price and does not affect the PLN 10.00 gross amount.

13.16. For a Platform Profile, the entire Chat Unlock payment is for the Operator’s digital service. A Platform Profile does not represent a real person available for an offline Meeting, and there is no real Author entitled to a share of that price for this profile.

13.17. For an ordinary Author Profile, Chat Unlock availability may depend on technical and payment conditions required by the Service or payment provider. A Platform Profile does not require Author payout configuration because the Operator provides the service directly.

13.18. Chat is unlocked only after the backend receives reliable confirmation of successful payment from the payment provider. Creating a checkout session, redirecting to Stripe or starting payment alone does not grant chat access.

13.19. Following a successful refund, Chargeback, transaction dispute or confirmed abuse, the Operator may revoke Chat Unlock, preserve transaction data and take measures provided for in these Terms.

13.20. Chat Unlock is the Operator’s separate digital service and is not the price of a Meeting or consideration for activities performed during a Meeting.

14. Temporary settlement holds

14.1. After payment, funds may not immediately be available for an Author payout.

14.2. Settlement of a properly completed Meeting becomes eligible for payout no earlier than 36 hours after its end. Payouts are processed in daily cycles; eligible settlement enters the next appropriate cycle if none of the obstacles below applies. This is the start of processing, not a guaranteed bank-account credit date.

14.3. A temporary settlement hold is not a bank account, deposit, trust account or licensed escrow service operated by the Operator.

14.4. Funds continue to be handled within the payment provider’s infrastructure under its rules and applicable law.

14.5. The Operator may technically mark settlement as held, ready for payout, refunded, disputed or requiring manual verification.

14.6. Missing payout configuration, unmet verification requirements or a justified legal or payment obstacle may temporarily prevent settlement. An Account Sanction alone does not cause forfeiture of remuneration that is due.

14.7. Holds cover the scope necessary for the particular matter. The Operator documents the reason, reviews whether the hold is still needed and releases funds when the obstacle ends, subject to binding legal and payment-provider requirements. Users receive status information unless disclosure is legally prohibited.

14.8. Holding a payout while a problem is investigated does not establish guilt, satisfy a claim or give the Operator an arbitrary right to retain the entire balance.

15. Author payouts

15.1. Payout requires correct payment-provider account configuration and fulfilment of the provider’s KYC or AML requirements.

15.2. The Operator does not guarantee successful verification or the bank’s payout crediting time.

15.3. A PLN 5 payout fee may be deducted from a Meeting payout if shown to the Author before choosing the payout method. Chat Unlock settlement rules are separate from Meeting payout fees.

15.4. Payouts may be temporarily held for a dispute, chargeback, missing verification, incorrect details, a specific suspicion of fraud, financial sanctions or a legal duty. Permanent refusal requires a separate legal basis or a finding that the amount is not due; it is not an additional penalty for an Account ban.

15.5. Authors are responsible for accurate payout details and their own tax, social-contribution and record-keeping duties.

15.6. Account deletion does not remove unsettled obligations or records required for audit, accounting, complaints or defence of claims.

16. Refunds, disputes and chargebacks

16.1. Refunds are handled under these Terms, the Refund Policy, conditions shown before payment, the parties’ status and applicable law.

16.2. An automatic refund may be technically unavailable after a transfer or payout, during a chargeback or because of a payment-provider restriction. This does not remove the duty to provide a refund that is due or handle a complaint. The Operator then handles the matter manually and explains the next steps.

16.3. The Operator may request explanations and evidence and hold settlement until verification is complete.

16.4. False reports, manipulated evidence, refund blackmail or bad-faith chargebacks are serious violations.

16.5. External restaurant, café, transport, ticket, attraction and other expenses incurred outside the Service are separate from the Meeting price and service fee and are subject to Users' own agreements under section 13.

16.6. Nothing limits consumer rights that cannot be excluded by contract.

16.7. If a dispute concerns an external cost that messages or other credible evidence show one party agreed to cover, the Operator may reasonably accept a Report, preserve available Service messages and metadata and help establish events, but does not guarantee recovery of money or performance by the other party.

16.8. A User's failure to pay a restaurant bill, ticket, travel or other external expense they agreed to cover does not automatically oblige the Operator to pay it, refund it from its own funds or deduct it from the Meeting price.

16.9. Users may pursue claims directly against the other party under applicable law. The Operator does not provide legal or debt-collection services and may only support Report handling within the scope of the Service and law.

16.10. A complaint or good-faith chargeback is not inherently abusive and does not justify a Sanction. Abuse requires a finding of bad faith; rejecting a request alone does not prove bad faith.

16.11. Refunds and chargebacks for the same amount are coordinated to avoid a double refund. A verified accidental duplicate payment must be settled; it does not create an additional duty to attend a Meeting.

16.12. The Operator's platform-procedure decision does not replace a court judgment or prevent legal claims. A review or rating does not replace a complaint.

17. RentDate VIP

17.1. VIP is a paid digital service supplied for the period and on the terms shown before purchase.

17.2. As of the last update, active VIP includes no advertising in the Service, the ability to initiate messages to people offering Meetings before a Meeting is accepted without buying a separate Chat Unlock, publication of public posts, the ability to hide an Account or Profile where supported, a reduced service fee and an increased Referral Bonus under section 17a and the Price List.

17.3. The purchase screen states the price, access period, renewal method, cancellation method and included features.

17.4. VIP is a one-time package for 30, 90 or 365 days and does not renew automatically. A further period requires a separate purchase by the User.

17.5. VIP does not guarantee a Meeting, reply, acceptance, visibility, earnings or a particular result.

17.6. Changes to VIP features apply prospectively and should not deprive Users of features paid for during the current period unless law or safety requires it.

17a. Referral Programme

17a.1. The Referral Programme is a voluntary promotional feature. Users may share their individual referral link with people who wish to create a new RentDate Account.

17a.2. To attribute registration to a Referrer, the Referred Person must enter the Service through a valid referral link and complete registration within the attribution period. As of the update date, that period is 30 days after attribution is recorded. An already completed Account cannot be retrospectively attributed to a Referrer.

17a.3. At most one Referral Bonus may be earned for each Referred Person. The Bonus is PLN 1.00 if the Referrer has no active VIP when it is awarded, or PLN 2.50 if the Referrer has active VIP at that time. The backend assesses VIP status when awarding the Bonus, not when the link is shared, attribution is recorded or the Referred Person registers. Once the Bonus is awarded, the referral is credited and complete; later transactions by that Referred Person do not generate further Bonuses.

17a.4. A referral qualifies when the total value of correctly paid and settled Meetings relevant to the Referred Person's Account use reaches at least PLN 150.00. For Meeting purchasers, purchase value counts; for those offering paid Meetings, sales value counts.

17a.5. The threshold in clause 17a.4 is cumulative. A single Meeting need not cost PLN 150.00; successive correctly settled Meetings may be added together to reach the threshold.

17a.6. Only Meetings successfully paid and correctly settled by the backend after the applicable settlement hold count. Cancelled Meetings, Meetings refunded before settlement, unsettled or blocked Meetings and those in an active dispute do not increase the total.

17a.7. If fraud, a Chargeback, Referral Programme abuse, artificial transactions or another circumstance later shows that the Bonus conditions were not actually met, the Operator may correct, block or reverse an undue Bonus to the extent permitted by law.

17a.8. If the Referrer's Account has an active ability to receive payouts in the Service, the Referral Bonus is credited to their withdrawable bonus balance under the payout rules. Otherwise it is credited as platform balance usable only for RentDate Meetings and cannot be withdrawn as cash or transferred to another person unless the Service expressly provides otherwise.

17a.9. Clicking a link, recording attribution or creating an Account alone does not award a Bonus. The Service may separately display the number of correctly registered Referred Persons and referrals that reached the threshold and qualified.

17a.10. Self-referral, fictitious or multiple Accounts, automated registrations, reciprocal referrals solely to generate Bonuses, artificial transactions, circumvention and other manipulation are prohibited. The Operator may refuse or cancel a Bonus or impose a Sanction where credible grounds establish abuse.

17a.11. The Programme does not guarantee income, registration numbers or that a Referred Person will reach the threshold. Referrers are responsible for lawfully sharing their link and must not use spam, misleading advertising or impersonate the Operator.

17a.12. Bonus amounts, balance usage and current Programme parameters appear in the Price List and relevant Service screen. Programme changes apply to future referrals and follow the rules for changing the Price List and these Terms.

17a.13. Users are independently responsible for any tax, record-keeping or other public-law obligations arising from a Bonus under their circumstances or applicable law.

17.7. On statutory withdrawal from VIP started at a consumer's effective request, settlement accounts for the part actually performed. Incomplete days are not automatically rounded up. Any additional cancellation opportunity after the statutory period is governed by the Refund Policy.

17.8. Prolonged unavailability of paid features may justify a complaint and remedies for lack of conformity. General notice that outages may occur does not exclude these rights.

18. Private messages

18.1. Messages from ordinary Accounts are User Content for which their senders are responsible. The Operator is responsible under applicable law for communications by persons acting on its behalf, in particular those operating Platform Profiles.

18.2. The Operator does not create, approve in advance or warrant the truth, legality, intent or effects of Users' messages.

18.3. The Operator has no duty of general, continuous monitoring of all private messages and does not guarantee detection of every violation before it is reported.

18.4. The Operator may use proportionate automated filters and safety limits and manually analyse messages that are reported, linked to a dispute or require legal action.

18.5. Users may report a message or Account. The Operator may preserve content, restrict communication, remove a message, suspend an Account and provide data to authorised bodies.

18.6. The Operator does not guarantee confidentiality of information voluntarily given to a recipient, who may copy or record it.

18.7. Users may not send threats, harassing messages, spam, phishing, malware, information intended to circumvent payments, prohibited offers, another person's private data or any sexually explicit content, messages, proposals or materials, even with the recipient's consent. Activities involving NCII and revenge porn described in section 12 are also prohibited.

18.8. The Operator processes messages only within the scope described in the Privacy Policy and required for communication, safety, reports, disputes and legal obligations.

18.9. Permission to initiate a conversation may arise from active VIP, a successfully Paid Meeting or successfully paid Chat Unlock, among other grounds. Each is subject to the same safety, moderation and User Content responsibility rules.

18.10. Revoking Chat Unlock after a refund, Chargeback or dispute may prevent continued use of access granted solely on that basis unless another valid basis exists, such as active VIP or a Paid Meeting.

19. Posts and other User Content

19.1. Users are responsible for the Profiles, photographs, posts, comments, notes and Reviews they publish.

19.2. The Operator is not the author or publisher of User Content solely because it provides tools for publication or moderation.

19.3. Illegal, sexual, pornographic, harassing, discriminatory or fraudulent content, and content infringing privacy, copyright or personal rights, is prohibited.

19.4. The Operator may use automated and manual moderation but does not guarantee detection of every violation.

19.5. Failure to remove content earlier does not mean the Operator accepts or recommends it.

19.6. On receiving credible information about possible illegality, the Operator assesses the matter without undue delay and takes legally required action appropriate to the nature and seriousness of the incident.

19.7. Reviews described as coming from paid, completed Meetings must originate from those transactions. Fictitious reviews, purchased ratings and making refunds conditional on a positive review or removal of truthful criticism are prohibited.

19.8. Platform Profiles and demonstrations are recognisably labelled before purchase decisions. Synthetic demonstration reviews are not presented as real Client experiences or included in the average of genuine reviews.

19.9. Before saving public Profile text, availability notes, posts and replies, the Service applies rules detecting selected violation signals in Polish and English, particularly prohibited sexual offers, some word-obfuscation attempts, admissions of being underage, threats and selected attempts to obtain sensitive information fraudulently. A rule match may stop publication and create a case for an authorised person to assess. The filter is an aid and does not recognise every context or every method of circumvention.

19.10. New photographs submitted to a Profile are analysed by Google Cloud Vision SafeSearch before joining the approved Profile photographs. An incomplete result or tool error does not constitute approval to publish. Adult-content or violence signals may lead to rejection and referral for manual review. This analysis does not verify age, identity, the depicted person’s consent or comprehensively detect child sexual abuse material.

19.11. Age at registration is checked using the declared date of birth and an 18+ declaration. This does not mean that every User’s identity document is checked. Suspected minority, false information or exploitation of another person requires separate assessment and may lead to Account restrictions under sections 5 and 21.

19.12. An automated publication block does not automatically establish guilt or permanently ban an Account. Results may be challenged at kontakt@rentdate.pl; Sanctions and appeals follow sections 21–22. User reports and tool signals enter the moderation panel, where high-risk cases may be marked as priority.

20. Reporting content and Accounts

20.1. Users may report a Profile, photograph, post, message, Review, Meeting or Account using an available feature or by emailing kontakt@rentdate.pl.

20.2. An illegal-content Report should identify the precise content address or identifier, reasons, the reporter’s name or organisation, email address and a statement of good faith. Statutory exceptions concerning reporter details remain unaffected.

20.3. Reports should be sufficiently precise and substantiated for the Operator to assess them without a disproportionate investigation.

20.4. Without undue delay, the Operator acknowledges Reports containing electronic contact details and communicates the decision and ways to challenge it. Additional information needed for assessment may be requested.

20.5. A Report does not guarantee removal. The Operator assesses its merits, law, context, affected persons' rights and safety risk.

20.6. Reports and evidence may be retained after content removal when necessary for protection of persons, settlement, appeals or legal obligations.

20.7. Manifestly unfounded, bulk, retaliatory or fraudulent Reports may lead to feature restrictions after considering frequency, seriousness and intent, subject to mandatory legal rights.

20.8. Illegal content may also be reported without an Account at kontakt@rentdate.pl. For child sexual abuse material, identify its location and do not send a copy. Contact emergency services in immediate danger.

20.9. The Operator fulfils duties to notify competent authorities where required by law. Only data relevant to the matter and appropriate legal basis is disclosed.

21. Moderation and Sanctions

21.1. The Operator applies measures proportionate to the type, seriousness, frequency and effects of a violation and the Account's history.

21.2. The usual sequence of Sanctions may include: a) guidance or warning; b) removing or hiding Content; c) restricting publication, messaging, invitations, payments or other features; d) hiding a Profile or removing Author status; e) temporary Account suspension; f) a permanent ban and prohibition on registering again.

21.3. The Operator need not apply Sanctions sequentially and may immediately apply a stronger measure where serious risk exists.

21.4. Immediate blocking may be applied particularly for: a) suspected activities involving minors; b) violence, threats, blackmail or human trafficking; c) paid sexual services or facilitating them; d) fraud, Account takeover, deception or payment manipulation; e) publication of gravely illegal content; f) persistent circumvention of earlier Sanctions.

21.5. The Operator may concurrently cancel Meetings, hold payouts, preserve evidence and report the matter to the payment provider or authorities.

21.6. Grounds for restriction may include breaches of these Terms, law, third-party rights or payment-provider rules, safety, verification duties or material financial risk.

21.7. Sanctions do not remove a User's responsibility for earlier conduct or settlement obligations.

22. Reasons for decisions and appeals

22.1. Where required by law, the Operator informs Users of the main reasons for content removal, visibility restrictions, feature restrictions, suspension or blocking.

22.2. This information may identify the provision breached, the nature and duration of the Sanction and the available appeal route.

22.3. Users may appeal at kontakt@rentdate.pl or through an available Service feature.

22.4. Appeals should include the Account identifier, decision date, objections and available evidence.

22.5. A competent person reviews appeals impartially, taking submitted evidence into account. Review is not limited to repeating an automated decision.

22.6. The Operator may uphold, amend or revoke a decision, restore content, shorten a Sanction or require additional verification.

22.7. Abusive appeals, automated bulk requests or threats towards support may lead to contact-channel restrictions without removing statutory rights.

22.8. Reasons describe the scope, grounds and basis of the restriction and the role of automated tools, if used, subject to data protection and statutory disclosure limits.

22.9. Account restrictions do not close the email channel for complaints and appeals. Users may challenge an incorrect automated assessment. Statutory appeal rights remain unaffected.

23. Bots, scraping and circumvention

23.1. Bots, scraping, automated Account creation, bulk Profile downloading, spam messages, false checkouts and excessive infrastructure load are prohibited.

23.2. Circumvention of App Check, rate limits, database rules, backend validation, payment security, bans and moderation mechanisms is prohibited.

23.3. Encouraging payment outside the Service to avoid fees, refund rules, payment protection or safety checks is prohibited.

23.4. The Operator may restrict traffic, invalidate requests, block an address or Account, charge fees that are due and seek compensation within legal limits.

23.5. Security testing requires the Operator’s prior written consent.

24. Personal data and privacy

24.1. Data processing is governed by the Privacy Policy, GDPR information and Cookies Policy.

24.2. The Operator may process data needed for Accounts, communication, payments, payouts, reports, moderation, safety, complaints and claims.

24.3. Users should not publish document or card details, passwords, codes, full private addresses or third-party data without a legal basis.

24.4. The Operator may retain logs, messages and incident data to the extent necessary for disputes, safety, audit, accounting or legal obligations.

24.5. The payment provider may act as a separate data controller for KYC, AML, payments, refunds, chargebacks and payouts.

24.6. Where required by law, or legally permitted and necessary for a particular proceeding, protection of rights or safety, the Operator may preserve and provide competent authorities or services, in particular police, prosecutors, courts, the National Revenue Administration or other authorised bodies, with User identification data, transaction and payout history, messages, reports, logs and other information in the Operator’s possession.

24.7. Clause 24.6 does not grant authorities unlimited access to the Service’s entire database. Preservation and disclosure are limited by applicable law, the purpose of the particular request and data minimisation.

24.8. The Operator may retain information needed to document handling of a legally binding authority request within the scope and period permitted by law.

25. Intellectual property and licence

25.1. Users retain rights to their own Content insofar as they hold those rights.

25.2. By publishing Content, Users grant the Operator a non-exclusive, royalty-free licence to the extent necessary to store, technically process, moderate, display and make it available according to the Service settings.

25.3. This technical licence does not cover using a User’s photographs, likeness or statements in advertising or promotional campaigns beyond displaying them according to Service settings. Such use requires a separate appropriate basis, including consent to dissemination of a likeness where required.

25.4. Users warrant that publication does not infringe third-party copyright, image rights, privacy or other rights.

25.5. The code, interface, logo, system texts, database and other Service elements belong to the Operator or its licensors.

25.6. Decompiling, copying, reselling or using the Service beyond the scope allowed by law and application features is prohibited.

25.7. After Content is deleted, the technical licence does not justify continued public display. Limited copies may be retained for justified evidentiary purposes or within backup cycles under the Privacy Policy.

26. Availability, updates and conformity of services

26.1. The Operator exercises due care to ensure its digital services conform to the contract and are appropriately secured.

26.2. The Operator may perform technical work, repairs, feature updates and security updates.

26.3. The Service may be temporarily unavailable because of maintenance, failures, force majeure, security incidents or external-provider problems.

26.4. The Operator gives notice of planned significant interruptions where reasonably possible.

26.5. Users should install updates and use a supported application or browser version.

26.6. Consumers retain remedies for lack of conformity of digital services under applicable law.

27. Liability

27.1. The Operator is liable for its own digital services under the contract and mandatory law.

27.2. To the extent permitted by law, the Operator is not liable for: a) the content, tone, truth or effects of Users’ messages and other Content; b) Users’ conduct outside the Service; c) a User’s absence, lateness, refusal, change of mind or failure to perform a Meeting; d) the conduct, location, outcome or safety of an offline Meeting; e) false or outdated information supplied by a User; f) activities after contact or payment moves outside the Service; g) bank or payment-provider decisions beyond the Operator’s control.

27.3. Clause 27.2 does not exclude the Operator’s duty to perform its own service, handle complaints, carry out an agreed refund procedure or respond to a credible Report.

27.4. The Operator is not liable for User Content solely because it technically stores it, provided it meets the legal conditions for protection and takes appropriate action after obtaining the legally required knowledge.

27.5. Users are responsible for their own actions, legal violations, Content, damage caused to others and costs arising from misuse of the Service.

27.6. Liability limits do not cover intentional damage or cases where consumer rights or other liability cannot be excluded by contract.

27.7. Describing RentDate as a platform does not exclude responsibility for its own representations, Operator Content, actions of authorised Platform Profile personnel or failure to perform its own services. User-conduct prohibitions do not replace the required response to a specific Report.

28. Suspension, Account deletion and retention

28.1. Users may delete their Account using the settings feature.

28.2. The Operator may suspend, restrict or delete an Account for reasons in these Terms, subject to proportionality and information duties.

28.3. Account deletion does not automatically remove unsettled payments, payouts, disputes, chargebacks, complaints or liability for earlier violations.

28.4. Data may be retained within the limited scope required for accounting, tax, audit, fraud prevention, safety, evidence and claims.

28.5. After deletion, Users may lose access to their Profile, messages, history, reviews, Meetings and VIP features.

28.6. The Operator may prevent re-registration by a person permanently banned for serious or repeated violations.

29. Complaints and consumer rights

29.1. Complaints about the Service's operation, VIP, payments, payouts, moderation or other Operator services may be submitted at kontakt@rentdate.pl or through an available form.

29.2. Complaints should contain information identifying the Account, the problem, date, Meeting or payment identifier and the requested resolution.

29.3. The Operator may request information necessary to handle a complaint but does not request passwords, one-time codes or full card details.

29.4. The Operator replies to consumer complaints within 14 days of receipt unless a specific provision states otherwise. Replies are provided on paper or another durable medium, such as email. Failure to reply on time has the effects provided by statute.

29.5. Before purchasing an Operator service, consumers receive legally required information, in particular the main features, total price, duration, termination rules and any right of withdrawal.

29.6. If a consumer requests performance before the withdrawal period ends or purchases digital content or services, the Service obtains the declarations and acknowledgements required by law. Accepting these Terms alone is not treated as automatic waiver of withdrawal rights.

29.7. Starting performance does not automatically remove withdrawal rights; the effect depends on the type of supply, extent of performance and fulfilment of statutory information and formal requirements.

29.8. Before a Client is bound by a paid Meeting, the Service should clearly indicate whether the Author declared non-registered business activity or a registered sole-trader business and explain the basic division of responsibilities between Author and Operator.

29.9. 'Non-registered business activity' means no CEIDG registration is required when statutory conditions are met; it is not presented to Clients as automatically excluding consumer protection. Clients' rights against Authors follow mandatory law and the circumstances of the particular contract.

29.10. Authors operating as registered sole traders are responsible for information and consumer duties associated with their Meetings. Operating the platform or handling payments alone does not transfer these duties to the Operator unless mandatory law provides otherwise.

29.11. The main Profile ranking parameters and their relative importance are described in these Terms and should be accessible from the interface displaying Profiles or search results.

29.12. Nothing in these Terms limits consumer rights that cannot be excluded by contract.

29.12a. Before paid Chat Unlock with a Platform Profile, the Service should clearly and visibly state that it is a Platform Profile, does not represent a real person available for an offline Meeting and may be operated by persons authorised by the Operator.

29.13. Chat Unlock is a digital service activated immediately after payment confirmation. Where law requires a separate request for performance before the withdrawal period ends, acknowledgement of its consequences or other consumer declarations, the Service should obtain them before purchase or activation to the legally required extent.

29.14. Buying Chat Unlock alone is not treated as an automatic waiver of statutory withdrawal or other consumer rights. Any refund depends on applicable law, performance, correctly provided information and declarations made.

29.15. Withdrawal, complaints and refund requests may also be sent by email. Using the application form or providing every technical identifier is not a condition of effectively exercising statutory rights; reasonably identifying the contract is sufficient.

29.16. For lack of conformity of an Operator digital service, consumers may request conformity and, in statutory cases, a price reduction or withdrawal. Settlement depends on the particular remedy; voluntary refund procedures do not replace statutory rights.

29.17. If paid Chat Unlock was not effectively provided, report the problem; the Operator remedies the non-conformity or provides the settlement that is due. The fee covers the communication feature described before purchase, not a guarantee of a reply, interest or Meeting. Absence of a response guarantee does not exclude liability for misleading representations.

29.18. No fee is charged merely for submitting a complaint or exercising personal-data rights. Active VIP is not required for these requests.

30. Changes to the Service, Price List and Terms

30.1. The Operator may change the Service, Price List or Terms for valid reasons, in particular: a) changes in law or authority decisions; b) changes in features, technology or payment model; c) payment-provider or app-store requirements; d) improved security and abuse prevention; e) removing ambiguity, errors or invalid provisions; f) introducing a new service or discontinuing a feature whose maintenance has become impossible or disproportionate.

30.2. Changes apply prospectively and do not alter the price or conditions of an already confirmed Meeting or paid VIP period unless the User agrees or law requires it.

30.3. The Operator gives appropriate advance notice and the effective date of material changes to an ongoing contract, on a durable medium where legally required. The notice permits the changes to be retained and reproduced unchanged; an editable website entry alone does not replace it.

30.4. Users who do not accept a change may stop using the Service and delete their Account before it takes effect, subject to unsettled matters.

30.5. Urgent changes may take effect without standard advance notice where necessary because of law, a sudden safety threat, fraud or a provider requirement, and delay would cause material risk.

30.6. If an Author is a business user and platform-to-business rules apply, the Operator gives the required notice, normally at least 15 days, and reasons for restriction or termination to the legally required extent.

30.7. The current Terms are available in the Service; acceptance may be recorded with its date and version identifier.

30.8. Where the P2B Regulation applies to the Author relationship, intended termination of all services is justified on a durable medium at least 30 days in advance unless a statutory exception applies. Required notice of terms changes is at least 15 days, or longer where business adaptation requires it. A justified urgent restriction does not remove other information duties.

30.9. Updates do not retrospectively change the price, consent evidence or settlement of an existing order. The archived version applicable to a transaction remains identifiable.

31. Final provisions

31.1. These Terms are governed by Polish law, subject to protection granted to consumers by mandatory law of their country of habitual residence.

31.2. If a provision is invalid or ineffective, the remaining provisions remain in force; to the extent permitted by law it is replaced by a solution as close as possible to its lawful purpose.

31.3. Supplementary documents include the Privacy Policy, GDPR information, Cookies Policy, Price List, Refund Policy, VIP rules and information presented before payment.

31.4. In a threat to life or health, contact the competent emergency services rather than waiting for Operator intervention through the ordinary reporting form.

31.5. Operator contact: kontakt@rentdate.pl, telephone +48 514 013 677. Correspondence address: Al. Grunwaldzka 116, 80-244 Gdańsk, Poland.

31.6. If the Operator’s business form changes, in particular through business registration, assignment or use of a relevant tax identifier, or changed contact details, these Terms will be updated accordingly.

31.7. A new version applies after publication and fulfilment of the information duties in section 30. Earlier contracts remain subject to their applicable version and lawfully introduced changes; publication does not retrospectively change consent evidence or settlement.
